

SOLUTIONS IN THE LAND

Stacy Cushenbery Ag System Strategist

Education

University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Bachelor of Science, Anthropology 2007

SPIN Farming 2009

Whole Farm Program: Michael Fields Agricultural Institute, 2007-09

Sustainable Food & Farming Certificate
University of Massachusetts-Amherst, Presently

Professional Recognition

EPA
American Planning Association Illinois Green
Governments Council Milwaukee Journal Sentinel
Urban Milwaukee

Stacy Cushenbery is an advocate for food systems and growers with experience in managing multiple projects and start-ups. Her knowledge of farming and gardening practices has allowed her to create multiple farmers markets, which have focused on under-served populations and have incorporated community education. Experience in implementing marketing campaigns in food systems and in business, gives her a deep understanding of the logistics of wide communications within agriculture.

Managing Owner, Twisted Tree Yoga 2012-2016

Created and developed brand identity, including brand aesthetics, visual, voice, and consistency through print, digital and social media platforms. Produced community outreach events through social media, blogging, and direct marketing.

Urban Farm Coordinator, Near North Montessori School 2009-2013

Instituted contaminated land restoration through bio-remediation. Community organizing to provide Farm-to-School program for the school. Installation of green infrastructure on the farm, becoming waste free. Provided curriculum content with an emphasis on stewardship, sustainability, and food usage.

Urban Farm Manager, Michael Fields Agricultural Institute 2007-2009

Led organic farming and remediation of the contaminated lot, leading to Organic Certification. Guided volunteer coordination on land stewardship and job training. Involvement in city policy development for green infrastructure implementation.